Annual Report,2020

About DCPUK :

DCPUK is a non-profit and non-political development Organization. Since inception in 1981 DCPUK introduced various welfare-oriented activities such as group formation, awareness rising, skill development, women in development, primary health care, savings, WATSAN, DRR, CCA, marketing, create livelihood options, Develop volunteer, credit for income among women and children in its working area. DCPUK perceived that the impact of these activities will not be effective and sustainable unless; we ensure community participation in the development activities and considering the perspective it has been ensuring participation of all level people in the development process. Furthermore, it has also been realized that close follow up., monitoring and evaluation is also necessary to achieve the desired effect/impact in the people's lives. Therefore, gradually DCPUK introduced all there system as essential core activities of the organization. Our involvement in community interventions it has been identified that the traditional power structure controls the local resources and dominating the poor. At the community level there are no people who can work and raise the voice in favor of the people's rights, against deprivation and disparity. Considering the prevailing situation DCPUK changed its working strategies and initiated empowerment for socially disadvantaged poor with a view to ensure their right in the society. However by this time the organization has become able to transform itself into a regional development actor in the northwest region of Bangladesh through structural reform as well as increasing the working area and programme interventions. At present, DCPUK has been operating in 4 different Project/programmes and working with 12600 project participants, which includes ultra poor, poor and marginal farmers in 6 Upazila, under 03 District namely Rangpur, Gaibandha, and Nilphamari in the Northern region

All the project results are very encouraging and sustainable, which is highly appreciated by the donors and the community. DCPUK is now highly concerned of its programmes, effectiveness, efficiency, impact and sustainability and makings all out effort through initiating necessary and appropriate measures.

Project background:

The Harijanare Dalit, classified as 'Sudra' (low cast) by the traditional society. It is widely recognized that they are far behind in respect of economic and social aspect compare to national average. Their rights and entitlement are not exercised that the constitution gave them. In the mainstream society, they are not allowed to enter any hotel to eat food, not allowed to have tea in the same cup use other people out of their community. They are not allowed renting house outside, even not allowed to enter to temple. It is same in the case of employment, earning, participation and social inclusion. Resulting, they are social and economic excluded ion on the basis of caste is practices over the entire country and is manifested in the physical structure of both rural and urban areas, exploited, oppressed and excluded throughout generations. There only livelihood options is cleaning toilets, sweeping streets, and emptying the septic tanks and like that.

Harijan families are functionally landless and very poor living hand to mouth. The entire family members are living in one room constructed by government on public land. Socially their standing is negligible. They are openly threatened, insulted and beaten if they make any questions. The situation of Harjan women are worst by caste based, gender based and poverty based

They are paid tk. 2500 to 3000 month. The young women who take such job are being sexually harassed, even raped. They do not have any platforms within their reach that can be linked with greater struggle and movement for realization of rights of harijan people.

The practice of early marriage denies the opportunities to the Harijan adolescent boys and girls to become self-reliant. They generally don't get equal treatment and legal protection when a crime is committed against them, as most cases are settled or negotiated through informal authorities often arbitrarily or on a discriminatory basis.

For above such dealing, there is nothing legal base. They do it because their fathers did it and before and their fathers.
